SYNOPSIS: Having grown up under the controlling grip of her fame-hungry mother, Janet Slate jumps at the opportunity to move into what looks to be a great high-rise apartment in downtown Detroit. While the neighbors seem a bit strange and the building superintendent a lowlife, Janet unpacks her things and celebrates her new freedom, only to wake in the morning with a mean headache and strange bruises on her neck. Determined not to return to her mother's home, Janet stays in the apartment in spite of numerous chilling encounters, until one night her boyfriend Mark finds her in the middle of the street, fallen from the balcony thirteen stories above. Deemed a suicide by investigators, Lara, Janet's older sister, knows better and is determined to reveal the truth behind her baby sister's death.

SYNOPSIS: During Earth's final days, Theoretical Physicist Dermot Turner is tasked by the President to lead the Exodus Program and move part of the human race to Europa, Jupiter's moon, which has been discovered to have an ocean teeming with life. Unfortunately, a serious problem preventing a safe journey must be quickly solved or mankind will be forced to invade Mars instead. Dermot, whose wife Claire has died in a tornado in California, seeks the assistance of Adele, the leader of a Mars settlement. Should they fail, a war will ensue between a race desperate for survival and the inhabitants of Mars who don't want their new world destroyed as Earth was by billions of unsustainable newcomers. With war days away, Dermot returns to Earth to find a solution — forever RESILIENT.

SYNOPSIS: On the windswept Suffolk mudflats creaks a bird-hide, inside which hovers Roy Tunt, a prematurely aged, mildly obsessive-compulsive birder. With one more sighting - the elusive sociable plover - he will have 'twitched' the entire British List. Tunt has his shortwave radio, packed-lunch and a portrait of his ex-wife Sandra for company. Suddenly, in the midst of a conversation with Sandra's portrait, the hide door blows open and a bedraggled stranger - unshaven, edgy and bloodied introduces himself as Dave John, a fugitive from the storm. After a tense introduction, the two men discover that they have a good deal in common, sharing sandwiches, tea and personal exchanges which are frank, poignant and often funny. As the two men begin to form a close bond news of a police manhunt sets them both on edge driving their fragile relationship to a tragic conclusion.
